Your participation in class work is important. You are expected to complete your course work in an evolving or remote learning environment. If you choose to return to campus during the pandemic, you accept that you are willing to do your part to keep the campus safe and acknowledge that you may be required to choose to return to campus. These are the realities of working and learning during a pandemic. If you are required to do your part to keep the campus safe, you must follow the health and safety guidelines and requirements and adhere to those measures Tunxis Community College deems safe and appropriate for the campus. This include social distancing, wearing masks or other facial coverings, not reporting to class or work if sick, and isolating when required.

Most important to CSCU and Tunxis Community College is the health, safety and welfare of every member of its community. Yet, despite campus efforts to comply with health and safety guidelines, it is not possible to guarantee a disease-free environment, or to guarantee that campuses will not close and return to an online-only learning environment. Energy Management Scholarship for Full-time Students

Tunxis Community College and the Connecticut Department of Energy and Environmental Protection (DEEP) have announced a renewable scholarship to help full-time students earn energy management credentials tuition-free. Up to 20 awards will be distributed each semester.

Tunxis students can earn a Technology Studies: Energy Management degree or certificate and prepare for entry-level energy management positions throughout the state. The degree offers seamless transfer to the Connecticut state universities, where students can continue with a bachelor’s degree in a variety of technology studies programs. Seats are limited for the spring term.

Tunxis Community College’s Energy Management program was developed to help the state meet the demand for skilled energy analysts and other positions in the energy sector. The associate degree and certificate provide skills in measuring, analyzing and reducing commercial and industrial building energy use. Students receive hands-on experience in “living laboratories” at Tunxis, where they perform energy analysis on Tunxis campus building systems.

The deadline to apply for the fall 2021 semester Energy Management scholarship is Aug. 20. Scholarship application and more information can be found on the Tunxis website: www.tunxis.edu. While recipients will need to complete a FASFA form, all students who apply will be considered for the scholarship since it is not based on financial need. Students selected can renew funding—which covers tuition, fees and books, for up to three years, including summer and winter classes. The scholarship is funded by a grant from CT DEEP.

Funding for the Tunxis Energy Management program is provided by the U.S. Department of Energy, State Energy Program administered by the CT DEEP.

For more information on the Energy Management program, contact Mathew Spinelli, Tunxis STEAM program director, at 860.773.1672, MSpinelli@tunxis.edu.
